A brush with Santa Cruz history

KAREN T. BORCHERS — MERCURY NEWS

Ralph Villalobos of Tupper Painting Co. works on a section of the 1894 County Bank building on Pacific Garden Mall in Santa Cruz, which still is recovering from damage in the 1989 Loma Prieta earthquake. The front of the building was saved and propped up, and a two-story structure was built behind the Renaissance Revival-style facade. The new structure will be used for retail and office space.
