HOME OF SANTA CRUZ HERITAGE--Santa Cruz librarians Dorothy Clarke, left, and Margaret Waller look over some of the historic records of old Santa Cruz, including glass-framed copies a November 4, 1916 edition of The Mountain Echo of Boulder Creek and a copy of E. S. Harrison's "History of Santa Cruz County," published by the Pacific Press Publishing company in 1892. These and other valuable records of Santa Cruz history appropriate reading now as Santa Cruz Heritage Days approaches (the four-day affair begins tomorrow) will be on exhibit in a special department on early California and Santa Cruz history that will be included in the new $900,000 library soon being constructed. Behind the two librarians is a rare old painting of Santa Cruz, done around the turn of the century, showing the city from a point atop Graham Hill--News Photo.
