Tide Wins Decision Over Groin Project

Army bulldozers are shown here pushing a groin section out of tide's way after this morning's attempt to place the experimental structure off Twin Lakes beach ended in defeat. Section in foreground will be joined to the longer string in background for another attempt early tomorrow. First section (not visible) has been in place since Saturday. Engineers' efforts have been hampered by unfavorable weather, rough surf and lack of equipment. Six-foot breakers mauled the long section shown above as soldiers tried to join shorter string to it this morning.
