

Tibet's Spiritual Leader Draws Thousands To UCSC

Sentinel Photos by Bill Lovejoy

Supervisors Keep The Faith

Supervisor Chris Matthews was raffed

Supervisor Chris Matthews was irritated when he wasn't invited to meet the the Dalai Lama Tuesday.

As Supervisors' Chairman Marilyn Liddicoat announced that she and Supervisor Gary Patton had been invited to meet the visiting religious leader, Matthews protested. "Why weren't the rest of us invited?" he asked.

Liddicoat explained that she was invited as chairman of the board and that Patton was invited because UCSC — where the Dalai Lama visited — is in his district.

"Well, I'm very upset," Matthews said, "I've told everyone on my block I was going to meet this guy."

Patton pacified him, "Only those of us facing recall really need to see him."

Liddicoat's recall election is in November and petitioning efforts to force a recall election against Patton have started.

