

Aptos Post out of business

The weekly Aptos Post published its last edition today.

After 92 editions, Publisher Steve Manousos said he had concluded there simply wasn't sufficient revenue to continue publication of the newspaper. "Today is the last edition of the Aptos Post," Manousos said.

The typesetting and graphic arts portion of his enterprise, he said, will be continued.

Curiously, today's issue of the Post said nothing about its being the final issue, and included several "house ads" telling prospective advertisers where to call to buy space in future issues.