A New Interest In An Old Clock

The old 1899 Odd Fellows clock that once towered atop the lodge's building on Pacific Avenue may find a home soon.

Removed more than five years ago, as shown above, the clock recently stirred the interest of UCSC and community groups who want to restore the old relic.

Members of the Santa Cruz Parks and Recreation Commission said Monday they were pleased to learn of the renewed interest. However, before a decision is made on where the clock will go, commissioners said they want all community groups who have an idea for the structure to express their interest and where the clock may be located.

The subject of what to do with the clock came up recently when councilwoman Mrs. Lorette Wood reported a UCSC group indicated it would like to put the clock's pieces back together.
