

'Postage' Aids Church Building Fund

The Youth fellowship of the First Baptist church is sponsoring a free Christmas card post office where church members may send greetings to one another.

Cards may be mailed either at the post office located in the Fellowship hall or in a special box which has been provided at the downtown sanctuary. Deliveries are made through a general delivery window beside the huge Christmas tree in the Fellowship hall.

Since no postage is charged, patrons are invited to make small contributions of their own free will to the post office. The young people will turn over the proceeds to the church for the education building fund.

John Wilcox is the chairman of this project for the young people. Donald Smith assisted him in the construction of the gaily decorated post office.

The general public is invited to use this service in sending greetings or Christmas packages to active members of the First Baptist church.

Youth Conference Set This Weekend At Mount Hermon

Some 70 leaders of senior high church youth groups will gather this weekend at Mount Hermon Christian Conference center for a leadership conference.

According to Rev. Bill Gwinn, Mount Hermon program director, the aim of the conference is to aid Christian youth in uncovering and using latent abilities as leaders. Practical discussions will cover such themes as goals, missions, starting groups, study, service projects and planning.

Youth ministers from California churches will serve as leaders. Instructors will be David Smith, youth at Peninsula in Palo Alto. Others will be Orley Smith, youth at West-... Barbara, a personnel...

First Baptist Church building fund will benefit from this Christmas card office set up in Fellowship hall by the church young people for the convenience of the congregation. No postage is charged, since deliveries are made through a "general delivery" window, but patrons are invited to make small contributions for the building fund. Above, Ron Smith serves as postmaster, waiting on John Wilcox, with sister Debbie and their mother, Mrs. Jackson Wilcox, next in line.
