

Local Poet Is Newly In Print

Cynthia Kennedy and Rudolph Lindenfeld

A book of poetry by Ben Lomond author Rudolph Lindenfeld with illustrations by Boulder Creek artist Cynthia Kennedy has been published by the Save the San Lorenzo River Association. Title is GREEN IS OUR EARTH.

Lindenfeld, 75, is a docent at the UCSC Arboretum and a member of the California Native Plant Society and the Save the San Lorenzo River Association. It is Lindenfeld's fifth book of poetry.

The book is dedicated to Lindenfeld's wife Miriam, who died in February.

Kennedy, whose drawings and calligraphy illustrate the book, has lived in Boulder Creek for six years where she has a business in porcelain painting. And, she writes a column on horseriding for a weekly newspaper in Felton.

Photographs in the book are from the collections of Fred McPherson, H. Kahn and Annette Lindenfeld.

It is now available from The Encounter store in Boulder Creek the A-Frame or Book Bank bookstores in Scotts Valley, Plaza Books in Santa Cruz and Save the San Lorenzo River Association, 340 River St., Boulder Creek.
