UCSC RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT PARK.

Don't make any mistake about it, those UC people are very serious about developing that park. While Provost J. Herman Blake and his committee are working hard to create some other plan to keep the Board of Regents happy, Colette Seiple, Steve Reed and many more members of the UC administrative staff are lobbying our elected officials to get that R & D park going. Sam Farr, losing all concern for the feelings of the citizens around here who elected him, is now in favor of that dreaded research park. That's what happens when you get to Sacramento and listen to the UCSC administration, I guess. It is just about guaranteed that the research park will develop into the really big campaign issue around here. It's a shame too, after the University tried for so many years to become a good neighbor. UCSC is now blatantly ignoring the people, the environment and the County that provided its unique surroundings. Much, much more on this later. *
