

Photo by Mark DuFrene

In for the Fourth

The U.S. Navy ammunition ship Flint is anchored off the Municipal Wharf in Santa Cruz, and guided tours will be offered over the Fourth of July. The ship will also be given a true Santa Cruz welcome by the Resource Center for Nonviolence, which plans on having a "presence" on the wharf while the ship is here. Spokeswoman Betsy Fairbanks said the group will be protesting the expenditure of money on war preparations at the expense of social programs.