

Barnes Wild Animal Circus Heading Towards Santa Cruz

Monday will be Jungle day. The Al G. Barnes Circus is coming here. The first section is due at 7:30 a. m., and at 10:30 there will be a two-mile long free street parade, resplendent in new paint, glittering with gold and silver. It is not an old-time circus parade such as the residents of this section are in the habit of seeing, but decidedly refreshing in its newness. Horses gaily caprisoned and attached to open dens of wild animals with their trainers sitting among these ferocious beasts. Zebras drawing dens of animals, Camels hitched to great band wagons, sacred oxen and many specie of rare animals will be seen. Numerous bands playing good circus music, handsomely attired men and women riders, the inevitable calliope, and steam piano, all make a striking picture over two miles in length.
