

We've Changed So Much, We Hardly Know Ourselves

12-31-58

This wide-screen, panoramic view of Santa Cruz was shot last week by Sentinel Photographer Pete Amos showing a city, which for its size, has undergone a tremendous change over the past 12 months. Cutting through the center of town are levees as part of the $6.5 million San Lorenzo river flood control project. Draped at the edge of the hill is the recently completed Morrissey by-pass which provided the final connecting link between Highway 1 south and north. Between the Soquel avenue and Water street bridges is the open space caused by the city's first urban redevelopment project where land is being cleared prior to resale and redevelopment.

Big Three Asks
For M

Super Trailer Park Planned

Cuban Rebel Forces Are

Southern State
Fire Blar
On Ar