

Crown College Taking Shape

The UCSC campus has three colleges now. Ground clearing work has begun for Crown college, third of the University's "Cambridge capsules." The Crown college site is in the foreground of this aerial picture. In the background are Adlai Stevenson college, at left, and Cowell college, first on the campus. Stevenson college will hold its first classes this fall and Crown will open in fall of 1967. Cowell's buildings are being finished in time for this fall's classes, ending a year of roughing it for the first 600 students. A few of the now-famous trailers, living quarters for Cowell students in the past year, are visible on the far right.
