Steelhead Get A Lift

Rich McGhee, a member of the Santa Cruz Aquatechs Diving Club, helps in luring one of the many steelhead taken from San Lorenzo River this morning near the river mouth. The Steelhead, some 600 in all, were removed from the river due to the shallow water conditions which prevent passage upstera for yearly spawning. The California Department of Fish and Game along with five Aquatech divers, members of the Santa Cruz Angling and Hunting Club and a group of the San Jose Flycasters joined in the massive transportation effort to Waddell Creek, just north of Davenport.
