

ing busi-
public
te that.
n of the y have
well."
vin's op-
the Red
supplied
ost and
onprofit
ould, be d at the
her than

ABB, of
gest of
he Red
two ma-
tions.
nds en-
s blood
B takes
blood.

by the replacement principle of blood banking."

The replacement system was defended, however, by Mrs.

wouldn't have mobile blood units and recruiters. The actual replacement figure is 44 per cent and that's all we can get."

Cruz.

The new owners plan to lease the building to a tenant who would make use of the entire

Leask Top Businessman

Samuel Leask III, left, has been designated businessman of the month by the California Chamber of Commerce. The special award is being presented by Mark Lewis, president of the Santa Cruz Area Chamber of Commerce, who told The Sentinel: "I don't think it could have happened to a more deserving person." The award goes monthly to a business person in the state to honor him or her for outstanding contributions to the community as a whole through public service as well as through business operations. Leask was given the May award for a broad range of contributions, including service as Santa Cruz mayor, Santa Cruz city councilman, chairmanship of various boards, commissions and committees. Leask, who is managing partner of Leask's Department Store, recently announced expansion plans that will cost almost $1 million.