Holy Cross' New Look

Holy Cross Elementary School on Emmet Street will have a new look on Sept. 12 when it opens its doors for the 1977-78 school year. A faculty lounge, kitchen and two additional classrooms were added to the elementary building during the course of the summer. Tom Reese of Reese Construction Company, left, Sister Margaret Ann of Holy Cross and Doug Welty, the architect, recently examined the plans of the finishing touches about to be added to the new building. The Holy Cross School Board, Ifland Engineers and Reese Construction Company all directed the building. Funds were provided by two bequests left to the school during the last five years.
