

7/23/82

See Story Page 1

Warning Or No Warning...

Signs warning of sewage contamination in Capitola Lagoon weren't enough to dissuade these and other beachgoers from a summer's day of play in the lagoon Thursday.

A raw sewage leak from the Venetian Court has pushed the fecal coliform count to 6,800 per 100 millimeters of water — well above the state limit.

The Venetian Court Homeowners Association last week was told to repair the leak, but work did not begin until today.

Nevertheless, signs and warnings from lifeguards went unheeded by many.

Sentinel Photos
By Bill Lovejoy

