Young Readers Become 'Pirates'

More than 300 youngsters in Santa Cruz and hundreds more throughout the county have joined the Skull and Crossbones reading club which will be climaxed in August with a grand kids party in the civic auditorium. Reading five books earns the title of pirate; 15 books earns the reader a certificate. Books may be obtained at the county library, according to Thelma Anderson, in charge of the project. One of the eager readers is Sherry Sellers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Sellers, 221 Pacific avenue. The background, a scene from Treasure Island, was painted by Scotts Valley students.
