Three Gems For The Crown

New academic terrain continues to be opened at UCSC as the fall quarter of the 1967-68 term began this morning with a week of orientation and other preliminary activities at Crown College, the third in the UCSC cluster. Some 950 students are on the university campus, including the first contingents of 525 scholars at Crown and 250 new students at each of the other colleges — Cowell and Stevenson. A chancellor's reception for Cowell College will be conducted at University House this afternoon from 3 to 5 with a similar event for Stevenson tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 4.

New Crown College students making their way across the near-complete Crown site are, from left, juniors Suzanne Ashton of San Francisco, Luree Stetson of Fresno, and Susan Crissman of Des Moines, Iowa. UCSC students who were enrolled in the spring and summer quarters are scheduled to return to the campus this weekend and classes will start next Monday. A total undergraduate enrollment of 1825 students is expected, up from last year's 1250. Graduate enrollment will rise to 75 from last year's 25 students.
