

Clouds apparently confined observation of the big ball to the Cape area. Clear skies would have permitted observation of the bal-

However, many U. S. satellites have weighed much more than its 510 pounds.

aid projects already under way will continue, U. S. authorities indicated.

Libraires 1460-69

7/17/62

And The Shelves Came Falling Down

Numerous volumes in the oversized book section of the public library's main branch came tumbling down yesterday afternoon when the shelf departed from the wall. Librarian Geraldine Work said the building had apparently settled to cause the damage. Two women were in the area at the time and were hit by the falling books but were uninjured. Mrs. Work and Newt Maddock, supervisor of city buildings, look over the damage. She said the library building hadn't been constructed to contain as many volumes as it does and it is overloaded with weight. Other shelves in the library will be braced to prevent similar mishaps in the future, she stated.

◆ ◆ ◆

◆ ◆ ◆