The fish weren't biting much at Loch Lomond Reservoir near Felton this morning, but fishermen Eddie Camacho and Doug Potter didn't mind.

"Doug told me it would be a historic event," Camacho, 31, of Santa Cruz, said of the first day the reservoir has been open for fishing in five years.

Potter's prediction was correct: There were hundreds of cars lined up waiting to get in as early as 11 p.m. yesterday, there was confusion and anger over who had priority to get in,
