Tree , Sea Triangle Tour

Vista of the San Lorenzo valley

Text by Alan Jones

* * *

Photographs by Vester Dick

he Mgic Tringle

An eight-yearst will blossom next Friday, with the ofopening of the Tree-Sea Triangle Tour throunta Cruz city and county. The tour has been letted with erection of tricolor signs markin route.

Friday afternoe tour will be opened by the visitor and oftion committee of the greater Santa Cruzber of commerce, which will host state chr of commerce officials, local dignitaries articials, representatives of the American Autile association, and local chamber members bus tour of the route. A stop on the two-hour will be made at Henry Cowell Redwoods park, where coffee and refreshments will be at the tour ends at the Dream Inn, wha reception is scheduled for the visiting gue

The tour starts tity hall, and goes from there to the wharf, small craft harbor, De-Laveaga park, Glennyon, Felton, down Highway 9 to Inspirationint and Santa Cruz, Highway 1 and High strete the University of California campus, there Natural Bridges State park, along West C drive, and ends at the Dream Inn and the ver again.

The tour idea onated eight years ago, and in 1959 the first thures were printed describing points of itest along the original route. A shortage of unds and other factors prohibited posting signon the route then, however. The new tour is inger, and takes in new points of interest suchas the harbor and the capus. Kay Dillon, who hads the visitor and convetion bureau at the chambe, has provided the "contiuity" force for development of the tour, and has wrked on it from the incetion in 1956.

New four-color brochures decribing the tour and listing points of interest will be available at the chamber office with the open-

The tour's purpose? It provides a year 'round attraction to visitors and tourists, providing an easily-followed way to see and enjoy the north county's natural be a u t y of redwoods, wooded valleys, and beaches, during times when Santa Cruz normally sees relatively few visitors.

A giant Cowell park redwood

Santa Cruz Sentinel

The Santa Cruz mission

Surfers at Cowell beach

little as one hour, or can be seen more leisurely over as long as two days.

The views here are typical of those seen on the tour—a giant redwood in Cowell park, a vista of the San Lorenzo valley; the Santa Cruz mission; and the bay, from Natural Bridges to the surfer-filled water off Cowell beach.

The beach at Natural Bridges park