Landslide Victory For Junior College

Grange Hears Knowland Hit Irresponsible Unions

By John Wheeler

Sen. William Knowland literally zipped through a special Santa Cruz campaign stop this morning pummeling hard what he termed irresponsible union bossism and his opponent's past record.

The Republican candidate for governor arrived 35 minutes late for a two-hour stay here meeting first with the press and then appearing before 2000 California State Grange members at civic auditorium.

In the press conference at Republican headquarters, Knowland confidently told party workers and reporters, "I am convinced we (the Republicans) are going to win this fight. There isn't a defeatist bone in my body."

When asked about the effect of the two-day California campaign for Republican candidates made by President Eisenhower this week, the jaunty hopeful for the governor's job was only mildly enthusiastic.

He indicated the president's campaign work would heighten interest in the election, but did not say Eisenhower's work was any more than "helpful" to his or the party's fortunes in the general election.

Sen. Knowland made it clear that differences of opinion between himself and Gov. Goodwin Knight on Proposition 18 (right-to-work) remain following the president's visit.

In his appearance before the Grange delegates, Sen. Knowland repeated his charges that under Attorney General Edmund G. "Pat" Brown the crime rate has spiraled to "astonishing and dangerous" heights. He especially pointed out the 165 per cent increase in narcotics addiction among teen-agers during the past five years.

Knowland linked his opponent to union leaders and then made his case for the controversial right-to-work law.

"There exists today in two men the power to strangle the life of the state and nation. This is far more power than any man should have, but it can be found in James Hoffa of the Teamsters union and Harry Bridges of the Longshoremen union," he charged.

"These men should be made responsible to the nation as a whole to protect the public and the very rank and file they are supposed to serve."

Knowland read quotations he traced to the two union heads to back up his charges that the unions are ready to take on the country and even the AFL-CIO organization.

"Mandatory union membership is the same as mandatory church membership. If it is put on a voluntary basis, workers will be free of dictatorial leaders thereby ending some of their power," the senator added.

The U.S. senate majority leader also attacked his opponents on fiscal grounds.

California will operate at a during the next fiscal year. And my opponent asks to step up spending," Knowland claimed. He added that rather than raise taxes to meet the commitments, he would favor trying to balance the budget.

"If my opponent is elected, he will augment the deficit since he talks of reducing and repeal of the state sales tax," he declared.

Knowland told the Grangers that he would call for a special

Chiang Urges Dulles To 'Reaffirm Solidarity'

Taipei, Formosa (AP). — Chiang Kai-shek told Secretary of State Dulles tonight it was "of paramount importance to reaffirm our joint stand of solidarity" against Red China.

The president's toast at a state banquet seemed to foreshadow a shell-for-shell return. The defense ministry tally of Red shelling was 5293 shells between noon and 6 p.m. making 8376 rounds for the past 12 hours.

The Communist shattered their cease-fire Monday with more than 11,000 shells.

City Approves Emergency Flood Control

City councilmen last night appropriated $2500 to provide emergency flood control protection below the Riverside avenue bridge. The motion came after hearing the city attorney's opinion that the city could not be liable for flood

C47 Crash Kills 6 In Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP). — An Air Force C47 crashed and exploded on a 970-foot mountain three miles south of Harrisburg today, killing six air force personnel.

The twin-engine craft crashed into the densely wooded mountain top and dug through trees for about 150 feet before it flipped over and began to burn.

Rescue crews from Olmsted field, the destination of the craft, spent almost two hours getting the blaze under control and recovering the bodies. All of the bodies were burned in the crash.

Lt. Col. Rudolf Stewart, Olmsted field engineering officer, said the craft was en route to Olmsted from Perrin AFB, Denison, Tex. and had stopped at Youngstown Tuesday night.

Only small parts of the tail assembly of the plane remained intact after the crash.

City May Still Get Its Fire Boat

The city may get its free fire boat after all, City Manager Pete Tedesco told the council last night.

Earlier this year, a 40-foot navy surplus boat was turned down as just too much for the city to handle or afford.

The new boat is a 24-footer civilian defense surplus with a six-cylinder engine. According to Tedesco, the deal is still in the "highly cooperative" stage.

Bye and Company was approved by the council to act as bond consul for the $5.5 million Newell Creek dam bond issue if it passes November 4.

Majority Is Better Than 2 to 1

By Wally Trabing

Santa Cruz county has been assured a junior college.

Voters yesterday overwhelmingly approved the establishment of a junior college district by a majority of more than two to one. Officials figured a 40 per cent turnout.

The big surprise was the showing of Watsonville area voters who swung in favor of the issue.

Needing only a simple majority, the total returns from 17,014 votes at 46 precincts were 11,879 "yes" and 5085 "no." The victory this time was as strong in favor as it was against in 1954 over the same issue. Those totals were 6369 against, and 3289 for the district.

The junior college proposal carried in the Watsonville area by 1197 (3027 yes and 1830 no). Santa Cruz area precincts gave the issue its biggest boost with 5347 over the "no" voters (8033 to 2687).

A surprisingly low "in favor" vote was reported from the San Lorenzo Valley area. Of the 1388 who voted, the issue won by 251 votes (819 to 568).

The issue lost in only four precincts, all in Monterey county. The Watsonville high school district extends over the county line. These were: Aromas school, 39 to 66; Pajaro school, 85 to 172; Hall school, 46 to 87; and Moss Landing school, 17 to 27.

What happens now?

Norman S. Lien, superintendent of county schools, said this morning that "within 30 days I have to set up another election for the purpose of selecting trustees who will govern the new district."

It passes November 4.
The council also endorsed Proposition 4 on the state ballot to provide some $10 million to small craft harbor development such as that proposed at Woods lagoon.

Grange treasurer, was master of ceremonies.
Emmett W. Ivy, state Grange lecturer, presided over a youth meeting.

These will include one from San Lorenzo Valley high school district, three each for the Santa Cruz and Watsonville high school districts."

Lien said the election would probably be early in January. Potential trustees will file as candidates at the county school office. He said the junior college district would start functioning officially on July 1, 1959, and that no declaration of a tax rate would materialize until then.

Funds to help in organizing the college will be obtained from special appropriations from the state for elections, and possibly office space, said Lien.

He predicted that junior college classes would start by September, 1959, probably in rented buildings in various parts of the county. "Everybody attending a junior college out of the county next year will have to obtain permission from the new college board," he explained, "but those now attending these colleges will most likely be allowed to finish."

Lien predicted a bond election for college building would be held in 1960. One of the first acts of the trustees will be to select a college president, the superintendent believed.

Lien called the vote a "great tribute to the people of Santa Cruz county and northern Monterey county."

Another jubilant person over the outcome was Carl Conelly, who said he had worked on the project for the past 10 years, mostly as chairman of the county committee on school district organization. He said he proposes to be a trustee candidate.

This college will have a tremendous effect in welding the county together," he said.

Enthusiastic congratulations came this morning from Monterey Peninsula college, which stands to lose more than 200 Santa Cruz county students when the new college is built.

Richard Matteson, MPC dean of instruction, said he and President Frederick R. Huber, "express nothing but delight that the voters were so enthusiastic. We are very pleased that the voters see the value of a junior college, and we are happy that the youths over there won't have this long commute."

"If there are any problems in organizing the new school, we hope we can help. We believe in education and that it ought to happen where the kids are."

Location of the college will probably be between Aptos and Watsonville. Already several names have been suggested. They have ranged from Santa Cruz County college, Cabrillo college, Mid-County college and Begonia college.

Several voters this morning reported confusion at some of the polling places which apparently were not prepared for such a turnout.

NAUTILUS IS 'OBSOLETE'

Groton, Conn. (AP).—Cmdr. Erman O. Proctor today told graduates of the enlisted basic submarine class at the submarine base here "we have submarines in production now which will make the Nautilus look like a Model T."
