Aptos Banner Missing Again

The familiar banner which hangs across the street in Aptos Village to announce the annual Fourth of July parade has been stolen once again.

A parade spokesman said the banner, which was painted 13 years ago, was taken after the parade last year.

Unless money and time is donated to make a new one, there will be no banner this year, said the parade spokesman.

The Bank of America has already contributed $25 to start the fund. Donations may be sent to the Ladies Tuesday Evening Society in care of Lucile Aldrich, No. 1 Easy St., Aptos.

Cost of the new sign will be about $150.

The route for this year's parade will be changed. The parade will begin at the Wells Fargo Bank on State Park Drive and proceed to the village at 1 p.m.

The Aptos Park will be formally dedicated at 2:30 p.m. after the parade.

For information about setting up booths for location at the parade's end, call Anne Issacs at 688-2950.
