

Bicentennial Ball Saturday

Come to the ball and have a ball—! That's the word these days for Santa Cruzans of all ages, from members of the Marri-Eds Junior Woman's Club.

The club is sponsoring the ball as a Bicentennial event October 18 at 9 p.m. at the Coconut Grove.

Music for dancing will be furnished by Vern Sp a u g h and those who wish to wear costumes are encouraged to do so, according to Mrs. Robert Gassaway, general chairman. Mrs. Don Fuqua is co-chairman. Snacks will be provided during the evening.

Tickets for the event are on sale at all branches of County Bank of Santa Cruz

Proceeds will go to the Marri-Eds' local charity projects.

FLOWERING PLANS for the Bicentennial Ball include these giant paper flowers decorations being made by Mrs. James O'Dell, left, Mrs. Don Montague and Mrs. Robert Gassaway, ball chairman.

Bicentennial At Library

With Santa Cruz Bicentennial observations under way, readers who would like more background on early days in the county can find it at the main branch of the Santa Cruz City and County Library in books, microfilm, and tapes.

Mrs. Phyllis Patten, author of the newly published Glen Haven memoir, "O that reminds me," has presented the library with two tapes: "Sketches of oxen, horses and drivers during the redwood timber era" and "Samuel Leask — recalling the beginnings of the Santa Cruz Public Library. The tapes are available in the Music & Art Room where a tape deck has just been installed.
