

A storm approaches

As a storm system swept across the Pacific toward the west coast, big waves battered the Santa Cruz coastline today, spreading debris along East Cliff Drive and taking big chunks of low-lying parking areas and even roadways.

Meanwhile, below right, workers in Capitola worked to clear out debris from underneath the Stockton Avenue bridge in hopes of keeping Soquel Creek running free out to the ocean.

Pete Amos/Sentinel

