

Gleeful Crippled Children Enjoy A Summer Concert

The second annual concert for crippled children and young adults at Camp Harmon was presented yesterday by the orchestra and chorus of the Santa Cruz County Summer Music Camp. Some 66 physically handicapped persons from Ventura County to the Oregon border were present.

In lower left photo, Dr. Peter Sacco, of the music department at San Francisco State College, directs the chorus during yesterday's program for the handicapped, whose presence at the camp is made possible by the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults with the cooperation of other organizations.

In the top right photo, an appreciative audience listens attentively and the girl in the middle yields to the urge felt by many concert-goers to help direct the program. The lower photo records the emotional impact of the music as it brings joy and serenity to the handicapped.

Water-Filled Auto Bumpers Key To Safety

San Francisco (AP)—A water-filled automobile bumper?

Yes, says inventor John W. Rich of Sacramento who demonstrated them Thursday at Candlestick Park.

The bumper is made of vinyl plastic, with walls a quarter-inch thick, and carrying about seven gallons.

When the bumper hits a pole the water is forced by the impact through capped holes along the top of the bumper. Rich says the water and not the driver thereby absorbs the impact's energy.

Demonstration cars slammed together at 30 miles an hour with no injury to drivers.

Rich said the bumpers cost less than $200 for cars and $300 for trucks. He said he had sold them to police in Santa Monica and Culver City.

PLEASE NOTE

I am writing in regard to Mr. Sam Gaston. He is not guilty of the crime they have charged him with, and we are not afraid to face any one who wants to ask us about this situation. We believe in a Great and Loving God, who redeems us of all sin and strife, and knows that wrong sayings will prove itself untrue some day,

I am too much of an Irishman and Sam is too much of a Tennesian, to be scared of facing the truth.

City Permits Total $102,690

Total valuation of building permits issued by the City of Santa Cruz during the week at 2010 West Cliff drive.

June 21-27 is a healthy $102,690, up from $66,085 during the previous week.

Almost half this week's total—$47,000—is for a five-unit apartment building to be constructed by C. Holdemaker at 404 High street.

One new home is to be built, a $20,900 structure by H. Audley at 2010 West Cliff drive.

Most of the remaining 13 permits are for additions or alterations to existing structures.
