

Anti-Trident March Saturday

People for a Nuclear Free Future will parade a symbol of the Trident submarine, the "Trident Monster," Saturday beginning at 2 p.m. at Grant Park. The protest will continue down Ocean Street, Soquel Avenue, Front Street and Pacific Avenue.

The Trident "Monster" is a series of ropes and poles which stretch 560 feet, the approximate length of a Trident submarine. From the ropes hang 408 black plastic bags, each representing one of the 408 nuclear warheads on the submarines. Thirty submarines are planned in the Trident fleet, at a cost of $80 billion by 1990.

People for a Nuclear Free Future is initiating public education and action projects in opposition to the Trident and other nuclear weapons systems.

These include a retreat Saturday and Sunday to plan actions in 1978. The weekend will include a potluck dinner Saturday at 5:30 p.m., with agenda items covered Saturday evening and all day Sunday.

Model Rental Pacts Available

The city Rental Information and Mediation Service has free model rental agreements available for landlords and tenants.

A RIMS spokesman said the agreement is written so that both parties will be aware of their rights and responsibilities.

The RIMS rental agreement comes complete with an inventory checklist to be filled out at the time that the premises is rented, and checked again when the tenant moves out. Ideally, both parties will then be aware of the condition of the property when the tenant moves in and out, thus avoiding disputes over the return of cleaning and security deposits.

David Harrison of the San Francisco district attorney's office, consumer fraud and white collar crime unit, recently requested the city Planning Commission.

The group has chosen Saturday's march to commemorate United Nation's "Human Rights Day." According to a group spokesman, "The Trident submarine poses the greatest threat to human rights of any invention on earth."
