Illegal homes reviewed by county

A report on the proliferation of structures built without building permits will be given to county planning commissioners Wednesday by Lt. Phil Kirkland of the Sheriff's Department.

The afternoon session on illegal structures, which will include a slide show by Kirkland, will begin at 1:30 in room 525 of the county center. Commissioners also will meet in the morning at 9 to tour several sites of proposed developments.

Kirkland is in charge of a Sheriff's Department investigation of illegally-built structures. The results of this investigation will be forwarded to the district attorney's office for possible prosecution, according to Sheriff Al Noren.

"We are saying that people are flagrantly violating the law," Noren said of the investigation. "Once we have the knowledge of a violation, it's obligatory for us to forward the information to the district attorney for him to make a decision.

"We were made aware of it (illegal structures) when gaining information on search warrants," Noren added.
