

Carol Staudacher will discuss her writings on recovery from the death of a loved one.

Author reaches 'Beyond Grief'

Going "Beyond Grief" is this month's subject for the monthly Book Talk sponsored by Friends of Santa Cruz Public Libraries.

Carol Staudacher will speak at noon Tuesday at the Central Library, 204 Church St., on her book entitled "Beyond Grief: Recovering from the Death of a Loved One."

Her talk will be directed to those experiencing personal bereavement and to lay and professional persons who work with others in this matter.

Staudacher has written for 20 years in the fields of mental health, educational technology and psychology. In the last four years, she has done intensive and specialized research in the field of bereavement.

Currently, she is working on the second in a series of books on the grieving process and she is a consultant to service organizations and institutions.

Book talks are open to the public, free.
