

Upon A Lucky Star

A workman leans perilously over the brink to haul a needed piece 60 feet up a hand line to the top of the illuminated, revolving identification sign for the new Lucky Stores supermarket at the intersection of Morrissey boulevard and Soquel avenue. The $400,000 store is set to open January 6. Three laminated beams over 40 feet in height hold the distinctive revolving sign, valued at $5000.

◆ ◆ ◆

A hydraulic boom holds other equipment near the bottom of the sign. Work was done by a San Francisco outfit, under sub-contract to general contractor Werner Jasper.

◆ ◆ ◆