A Look Into The Past

Captain John Davenport peered through his telescope to spot whales off the coast and you can peer into The Sentinel today to spot more such colorful characters out of Santa Cruz' past. Page 11 is full of pictures of county oldtimers, portrayed by today's leaders, who will appear at Saturday's dedication of the new county courthouse complex. Capt. Davenport, portrayed above by Elio Orlando, rode along the Davenport cliffs to spot whales. He then signaled his harpooners to take off in small boats in quest of the huge mammals that produced 1700 barrels of oil from 40 whales in 1862.
