

New Capitola Church School

First Baptist Church of Capitola now has a brand-new education building, shown in part, with Rev. Douglas W. Cox, church minister, on the steps.

The building was dedicated with the following persons participating in the service: Rev. Cassius M. Ellis, pastor of Progressive Baptist Church; Rev. Marvin Webster, pastor of the University Baptist Church; Rev. John Watson, pastor of First Baptist Church of Aptos; J. W. Carriger, Sunday school superintendent, Ken Stewart, deacon, and Jim Thurman, music director, all of the host church; Rev. H. O. Black, Superintendent of Missions, Santa Cruz Baptist Association; Rev. Glennon Culwell, pastor of Scotts Valley Baptist Church; Rev. Eric C. Madsen, pastor of First Baptist Church, and the host pastor, Rev. Douglas W. Cox.

The Church Choir sang with Mrs. Ray Ward as accompanist. Church hostesses, Mrs. Elizabeth Adams and Mrs. Ida Jarvis, were in charge of refreshments. Members of the church building committee are Mark Hadley, Charles Winham, Bill Nicholson, Robert Lewis, J. W. Carriger, Ken Stewart, and Dan Anderson. Plans for the building were drawn by Kenneth A. Rogers, A.I.B.D. General contractors for the construction of the building were C. E. Stumpf and Sons of Santa Cruz. Financing was arranged through L. R. Lenox of County Bank of Santa Cruz. The building is primarily geared to a program of religious education with 24 rooms. One of the larger assembly rooms serves as a social hall and it has a kitchen attached.
