

New Ben Lomond Postmaster Named

Nunnie C. (Nick) Whitfield, superintendent of postal operations at the Capitola Post Office, has been appointed postmaster of Ben Lomond. He will start his new job Aug. 8.

The appointment was announced Friday by William H. Lawrence, sectional center manager and San Jose postmaster in charge of the region including Santa Cruz County.

Whitfield, who resides in Seaside, will take the place of former Ben Lomond Postmistress Frances Jean Matthews, who died last December.

The new postmaster received his appointment under the merit selection program of the U.S. Postal Service. He assumes his new duties after extensive postal experience since entering the service in 1966 in Monterey.

Whitfield is a native of Texas who served in the Marine Corp from 1961-65. He is a member of the NAACP and various service organizations in the Capitola area.

His wife, Brenda, also is with the Postal Service, employed at the Santa Cruz Post Office as a supervisor.
